TOBACCO TRUST IS SPLIT INTO THREE CONCERNS BY DECREE OF FEDERAL COURT

Decision Rules That Dissolution Must Be Consummated Without Delay.
MAGNATES ENJOINED.
Barred From Increasing Their Holdings in Trust's Stock During Three Years.

The decree of the United States Circuit Court, providing for the reorganization of the American Tobacco Company, was filed this afternoon in the office of the Clerk of the court. The document contains the ideas of Judges Lacombe, Noyes and Coker as to what organization shall be made by the Trust in order to comply with the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, which declared it a monopoly in restraint of trade and ordered its actual dissolution within six months from the date of the filing of the original judgment of dissolution.

The decree, with some changes and modifications, follows the plan submitted by the American Tobacco Company. The changes and modifications made are the result of discussions at the public hearings.

The plan suggests that the books and records of the American Tobacco Company be kept intact for some time, but the court does not approve Attorney-General Wickersham's proposition that the matter of the disintegration be kept open for five years.

COURT REFUSES TO RULE ON UNITED CIGAR STORES CO.

It is specified in the decree that the request, made by numerous independent for the dissolution of the United Cigar Stores Company is denied, for the reason that the Court does not possess the power to make such an order.

The twenty-nine personal defendants named, who included Thomas F. Ryan, Anthony N. Brady and their associates, are enjoined, for the period of three years, from increasing their personal holdings in any of the three companies into which the trust is to be divided under the new deal.

In signing the decree Judge Coker said that he concurred in it because it is the best that can be done under the conditions. Judge Noyes added that he concurred in the ideas of Judge Lacombe, who announced the decree, especially with reference to the keeping open of the books of the parent trust and its several subsidiaries for the future inspection of the Government.

DECREE DIVIDES TRUST INTO THREE COMPANIES.

The decree, as has been stated, separates the company into three companies, each taking its proportion of the tobacco and license trade. The division, declared by one of the Government attorneys to be impossible of execution, is thus to make three parts of the Trust complete with each other, under a condition in which the ownership of the stock of the companies is not changed.

Judges Lacombe, Coker and Noyes granted the motion of T. P. Richardson, Jr. & Co. to withdraw the objections filed in opposition to the plan of disintegration proposed by the American Tobacco Company and the other defendants in the combination.

MRS. VERMILYA, IN JAIL, IS AGAIN STRICKEN.

Police Believe Woman Suspect in Many Deaths Made Another Attempt at Suicide.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Vermilya, accused of poisoning Policeman Bizzozzi, became seriously ill in jail this afternoon. She was stricken with a severe nausea and it was feared that, in spite of numerous guards, she again had attempted her life by poison.

JUMPED INTO CANAL.

Policeman Heroism Failed to Save Victim of Boat.

In an heroic effort to save the life of aged Martin Jordan of No. 95 Gardfield street, Jersey City, who had fallen from a scaffold, Policeman James Cahill of the fourth precinct, Jersey City, plunged into the Morris Canal at the foot of Bramhall street today, clad in full uniform, helmet and all. He succeeded in dragging the old man ashore, but Jordan died a little later in the City Hospital. Cahill's uniform was ruined, but the city will pay for a new one as a reward.

OLDEST ACTRESS DEAD, AGED 150, WEIGHT SIX TONS

Hippodrome's Elephant Succumbs After Week's Illness and Herd Trumpets Grief.

Carrie, the oldest and largest performing elephant and one of the herd which takes part in the spectacular show "Around the World" at the Hippodrome, died today of pneumonia, after a week's illness. She was the first elephant ever brought to the United States, and appeared first with the old John Robinson circus, which was noted half a century ago. The dead elephant was more than 150 years old.

Carrie had been under the care of Dr. Martin J. Potter, the Hippodrome animal physician, and though everything was done to relieve her, she failed to respond to treatment. After Saturday she continued to grow weaker, and early today sank down in her stall and expired, while her four companions trumpeted an uneasy apprehension of the loss of their comrade. The keepers had all they could do to pacify the excited pachyderms which are quartered in adjoining stalls.

Carrie's understudy, Lena, will continue to fill her place in the pageant of the Indian Purbar scene.

The dead elephant was larger than Jumbo in bone structure. Her weight was six tons and she consumed four hundred pounds of hay and grain mash daily. The herd to which she belonged is owned by W. W. Powers, who is well known as an elephant trainer. It has not been decided what disposition will be made of the body of the elephant, which will be embalmed by Dr. Potter, pending a final arrangement for its removal from the Hippodrome Building.

Election Puzzle in New Jersey

From out in Leonia, N. J., where Peter Newell and other bugs come from, arrived this afternoon the prize election puzzle.

Three hundred and eighty voters registered. Three hundred and sixteen cast their ballots for Mayor. Four ballots were challenged. Three of them were plainly defective. One of them was marked with an indelible pencil for the present Mayor Wood. Of the remaining 312 votes, 156 were cast for Wood and 156 were cast for Easton. The decision as to the legality of the indelible marked ballot will settle the election.

But that isn't all. Both Wood and Easton are Republicans. They got into a snarl over the Republican nomination and each of them tried to get a start on the other by entering the Democratic primaries. Wood went into the Republican primaries and the displeasure of Republicans with Wood for setting a Democratic nomination was shown by the nomination of Easton by the Republicans.

WOMAN HURT BY RUNAWAY.

Waiting for Trolley Car, Horse Knocks Her Down.

Mrs. Louise Bost, forty-two years old, of No. 168 West Fifty-eighth street, was run down and painfully injured this afternoon by a horse attached to a delivery wagon of Henry Sloss, a butcher of No. 588 Columbus avenue. She was standing in the middle of Columbus avenue at Eighty-eighth street, waiting for a trolley car.

The horse had been standing outside the store, a block away. A passing automobile frightened the animal and it rushed down the avenue. Mrs. Bost sought to dodge out of the way but fell in front of the horse. The wheel of the light wagon passed over her. At the City Hospital, where she was taken, it was said her injuries were not serious.

CARUSO RETURNS SAYING HIS VOICE NEVER WAS BETTER

"Engaged to Trentini? Bah! She Is Too Little," He Declares.

THE KAISER'S GIFT.

A Gold, Diamond-Studded Cigarette Case With Miniature of the War Lord.

Enrico Caruso, accompanied by his million dollar voice and a few fellow Metropolitan Opera House warblers, arrived for the coming opera season aboard the North German-Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie to-day. Among his first utterances was a denial of the report that he was engaged to marry Trentini.

"Who is this Trentini?" said the golden-throated tenor, throwing out his chest, crinkling his eyebrows and tilting his head with an angry shake.

"Of course, you must know her," said one of the interviewers.

"Ha, of course I must not," boomed Caruso. "Why is it I must know her when I do not? Engaged? Bah! I am not engaged. It is all the best press agents. It is all for the papers, to make advertisement."

"First they make it that I am engaged to Mary Garden. Ha, the press agents! Then they say that I am engaged to Lillian Grenville. More of these press agents. Bah, they all try it, to make money out of such stories."

TOO LITTLE FOR A STEP-MOTHER, THE TENOR SAYS.

"But it was reported in an interview with Trentini," urged one of the interviewers, "that she was already prepared to serve as stepmother to your little boys."

"Oh, no," uttered Caruso, throwing up his hands. "Trentini will be a stepmother. Ha, ha, that is funny."

"You just said you didn't know who she was," the great tenor was reminded, whereupon he shut his lips tight and laughed with his shoulders.

"Ho, ho, ho," he boomed some more. "I know why she is too little. She is too big—with his stories. Caruso is engaged to nobody. It is all for the papers, I say, and it is all for the papers that they say my voice breaks down in Berlin. I have neuritis in my neck, not my throat. My voice was never better. In Berlin I sing fifteen times one month, and the Emperor William gave me a gold cigarette case. Hoch der Kaiser, here it is!"

Caruso produced from a waistcoat pocket a magnificent case of solid gold, studded with diamonds and bearing the imperial arms of Germany. Inside was a miniature of Kaiser Wilhelm and ten gold cigarettes.

"Ah, yes, he is a great man," the Kaiser gloriously, laughed the tenor. "I like him so much I learn German. Wie geht's, yes?"

HIS LITTLE BOY LIKELY TO BE GREATER THAN HIMSELF.

Asked about the report that he was coming to America with one of his two little boys and a governess, Caruso again shrugged his shoulders.

"More for the papers," he said. "My little boy, Enrico, he is a little boy, only seven, but he has the voice just like his father. You should hear him sing, like this—" and Caruso suddenly released from his swelling chest a bar of "Travata." "I tell you that boy," he ran on, "will one day be a great singer. There is ten in the case and ten in the voice. It was never better. The papers say I cannot smoke any more, ha, ha, you see!"

At the ship's concert Caruso made twenty appearances of his fellow passengers, which were put up at auction and sold for $60. This swelled the total receipts beyond the record of any previous voyage.

Margaret Matzenauer, the Hungarian mezzo-soprano, who will sing with Caruso in "Alta" in the opening performance at the Metropolitan Opera House next Monday, was a fellow-passenger on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie. She has won fame abroad, but this is her first appearance in America. Other notable in the operatic world aboard the same ship were Bunty Deslin, Dimitry, the baritone, and Mrs. Andrews Dippel.
